

PARTNER WITH GRAND FARM

Grand Farm brings together partners from across the agricultural ecosystem to work on shared challenges. Through programs and events, facilitated matchmaking, and field trials in North Dakota and Georgia, we create space for meaningful collaboration among growers, startups, corporations, researchers, educators, investors, and government. Partners are invited to engage in real-world projects, connect with others who are working toward similar goals, and help shape the future of agriculture through applied technology.

"We lean hard on farmers to keep our pantries full in the face of intense pressures, but the Headwaters Tech Hub and our partners at Grand Farm are advancing technologies to lighten the load through innovations like precision irrigation, weed management, or autonomous tractors. We are working to develop the tech, show that it works, and most importantly—to get it in the hands of farmers where it can make a real difference."

"Grand Farm has been both a reliable field trial partner and a strong advocate for our growth. On the trial side, their team is organized, responsive, and provides timely updates with thoughtful analysis that keeps us confident in the results. On the advocacy side, they have created ample opportunities to build our business through introductions to ag investors and corporations — proving themselves as a well-connected team that truly cares about startups like ours."
